3. Adjust the binder to line up as shown. Attach the binder in place with the two thumb screws and washers. (Illustration D, E)

4. Measure the length of your project and add at least 6" (15cm). Cut enough 1 3/4" (45mm) strips to equal that number and join the strips together as follows: Place two strips with right sides together at a 90-degree angle. Sew the strips together at a 45-degree angle across the diagonal. Trim seam allowance and press open. Cut the end of the strip into a point.

5. Place the pointed edge of the fabric strip in the metal guide as illustrated. Using tweezers, slide the fabric strip into the binder with the wrong side facing you. (Illustrations F, G)

6. When the fabric is through the end of the binder, hold the folded strip with your left hand and continue to feed it into the binder while the fabric forms a double-fold tape. (Illustrations H, I, J)

7. Raise the presser foot and pull the strip under the foot and straight back 2.5" (5-6cm) behind the needle. (Illustration K)

8. Slide the fabric to be bound right-side up into the slot of the binder, using tweezers if necessary. To ensure an attractive finish to the binding, start to sew in the middle of one side of the quilt. Sew a few stitches to see if the seam is in desired position. Adjust the stitch position to right or left to reach the desired needle position. Test sew a sample before sewing your project. (Illustration L)

HOW TO SEW A QUILT BINDER CORNER:

1. Sew to the edge of the quilt, tie off and then pull the quilt out from binder. Keep the quilt close to the binder when folding the corners. (Illustration M)

2. Finger press the folded fabric. (Illustration N)

3. To create a mitered corner: Fold and pinch the top mitered corner, pin in place with a long pin. Repeat in the same way on the back of the quilt. (Illustration O)

4. To continue sewing the binding, pull the fabric strip back through the binder and at the same time place the quilt back under the presser foot and into the binder again.

Tip! Raise the presser foot to the highest position and the feed dogs will drop and create space for pulling the quilt under the presser foot.

5. To insure that the fold is right on both top and back, pull the quilt forward and back again a couple of times.

6. Lower the needle to hold the binding in place and remove the pins. Pull out long thread tails behind the presser foot before starting to sew. Backstitch and sew the binder in place. (Illustration P)

7. Repeat on the other corners.

Tip! Use the long thread tails to join the mitered corners.
